OVERVIEW

Executive summary

- EY India runs all of its CSR through EY Foundation (India), set up in December 2004 as the firm's CSR arm.
- Year-wise CSR spend is not publicly disclosed. EY India's main firms (S.R. Batliboi & Co. LLP, Ernst & Young LLP, EY Global Delivery Services India LLP) are LLPs, and Section 135 CSR rules apply only to companies, so EY's CSR is voluntary and is not in the MCA portal data this dashboard uses.
- The portfolio centres on three areas: Education (EY Disha scholarships), Entrepreneurship (rural women's self-help groups) and Environment (water security and lake restoration).
- Latest reported reach (Oct 2026): over 10,000 scholars since 2007, more than 4.8 lakh rural women in nine states, and over 8,500 farming households under water projects.

DATA NOTES

Gaps and sources

- No year-wise rupee spend: EY does not publish an Indian CSR report or annual action plan, and its LLPs do not file CSR-2 with the MCA.
- csr.gov.in not yet checked for EY company entities (the portal search needs a CAPTCHA). EY Global Delivery Services India Pvt Ltd converted to an LLP in 2017, so it is unlikely to appear for FY21-FY25.
- EY Foundation's own accounts would show yearly grants and spend; its legal form and registration number were not found in public sources. Ask EY Foundation India (Head: Sourabh Anand) directly.
- This report sits outside the dashboard dataset: EY is not added to the dashboard's totals, rankings or charts.
